GUM MOON WOMEN'S RESIDENCE

was founded in 1868 in San Francisco to rescue Chinese girls who had been sold into slavery and prostitution. In the late 1800's, the agency directed its attention to the care and education of abandoned Chinese girls and babies.

After many years of successfully providing transitional housing to women in need, Gum Moon's Board of Directors decided to reach out to a wider segment of the community in its provision of social and educational services. This resolution resulted in the establishment of the Asian Women's Resource Center in 1984, addressing the unmet needs of women and children in social and geographic transition.

Today, the AWRC services include parenting education and support, ESL and citizenship programs, pre-employment training classes, summer school and after-school tutorial programs for elementary school-age children, and comprehensive family support services.

The AWRC has also expanded to the Richmond and Sunset communities, providing family support programs through the Asian Family Support Project. The AWRC serves over 4000 women, children, and youth annually.
